BRIEFLETS.

—Ash Wednesday, to-morrow.

—Conductor's party this evening.

—Janesville City Lodge No. 30, I. O. O. F., occupy Odd Fellows hall this evening—regular weekly meeting.

—Supper for the conductors' party will be served by Alvin Golling. The refreshments are to be quite elaborate.

—Langdon & Co., who built most of the Evansville cut off have the contract for the Merrill extension of the C. M. & St. P.

—John Hines' horse will be raffled this evening at 6:30 o'clock at C. O'Brien's office at the west end of Court street bridge.

—There was an initiation of candidates at the Rock Legion of Select Knights, Mr. John O. Harlow being taken into membership.

—Mrs. F. B. Stacy will conduct the regular bible reading at the Baptist church this evening. All are cordially invited.

—Having found the steam heated cars to work well in Wisconsin the Milwaukee & St. Paul road intends now to try them in a Dakota blizzard.

—It is understood that while nothing definite has yet been heard, the chances of the Rev. Mr. Shillide's accepting the call from Trinity parish are good.

—Oriental Lodge No. 22, Knights of Pythias, assemble in regular weekly session this evening at Castle hall, Jeffers block, West Milwaukee street.

—Not until after eight o'clock to-night will the postoffice employees observe Washington's birthday. So far as they are concerned the little hatchet is only a dim remembrance.

—Flags of all shapes and colors flew from Elmstreet's signal staff to-day. Either there will be considerable weather or Commander Greeley is commemorating Washington's birthday.

—One of the living curiosities in a Chicago dime museum, says the Detroit Free Press, is an ex-merchant who ran business seven years without advertising. The usual period is only two.

—After changing its name from "The Wall Street Budget" to the "Wall Street Tribune," that really excellent company which visited Janesville some time ago seems to have gone off the road.

—Nothing has yet been heard of the postoffice inspector that was to see if Janesville could have free delivery and business men can still go down town after supper "to look over the mail."

—Only Aids. Croft, George, C. O. McLean and J. B. McLean answered to their names at the meeting of the common council last evening and an adjournment was taken for want of a quorum.

—The interesting articles in the Forum bearing the title "How I was Educated" are to be followed by a series entitled "Books That Have Helped Me." The first paper will be by Edward Everett Hale, and will appear in March.

—The funeral of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Day was held this afternoon, from the home of the parents, in the third ward. At the close of the services the remains were tenderly borne to Oak Hill for interment.

—At St. Patrick's church this morning was celebrated the wedding of Patrick Garry, of Chicago, and Miss Carrie Griffin, of this city. The best of wishes will follow the young couple to their future home, which is to be in Chicago.

—After seeing many number of cutters upset, Marshal Hogan has finally taken up the street commissioner's work. He was busy to-day with a gang of tramps making the west approach to the Milwaukee street bridge fairly passable.

—There was a breath of spring—and just a wee whiff of Mikado—in the bright show window of J. A. Denniston this morning. It was full of blossoming hyacinths that seemed very much like a promise of warm weather and that made slippery sidewalks quite endurable.

—On April 1st, so President Clark, of the street railway company, says, it is hoped that the line to Oak Hill cemetery will be ready for operation. Iron will be shipped the first of next month. Just as soon as the cemetery line is finished, additional cars will be sent, and work will be commenced on the Monterey branch.

—Funeral services over the remains of Miss Mattie Reeves, who died at the home of her sister Mrs. Charles Downing on Sunday, were held this morning. At the close of the sad ceremonies the remains were taken to the 12:20 train, as it is intended to have them buried in the family lot at Watertown, New York.

—About fifty dollars have been raised by the Young Men's Extension society of the First M. E. church as a nucleus for a building fund. It is proposed to put up an addition at the rear of the church, for use as a Sunday school room. The addition is to be of brick and similar in style to the church itself.

—We publish in another column a communication on the question of ownership of water works. While this question is being agitated and discussed, the columns of the Gazette are open to a fair discussion of both sides, this being the best means of concentrating public sentiment on this important local question.

—Janesville, says the Evening Wisconsin, is to be the permanent headquarters of the Salvation Army. Whether the selection is made because Janesville is deemed very good and likely to help the army, or very bad and in special need of the army's saving offices, is a conundrum; and the good people of Janesville don't know whether to feel flattered or the reverse.

—This afternoon short funeral services were held over the remains of Mrs. Mary F. Dobson who died at Mitchell, Dakota, on Wednesday February 16th, after an illness of about two weeks. She left a

STILL DEBATABLE.

The Question of Ownership of the Water Works.

To the Editor.

I discover, on reading the letter of the superintendent of the Madison city water works, that the cost of service connections, to the customers, is at the expense of the city, and the same rule prevails in every city owning its water works.

On the contrary, a company owning water works, requires, as a rule, that each water payer pay the company the cost of such service-connection. The service connection may, and probably will, cost the people of this city a sum greater than the aggregate, every year, than the annual interest on the cost of an entire plant for city water works.

Be assured that a company, dealing with individuals, will not neglect any opportunity to charge soundly for its claimed superior knowledge and experience in such work, and the material used. Individual citizens pay the cost, but all the same, it takes just so much additional money from the people. If our wise men, who run our city government contract with a company, be sure and have it, "incorporated in the bond" that the company furnish service connections at its cost, and not at the expense of its patrons. Otherwise the company will impose upon water takers to a sufficient extent to raise a sum equal to the annual interest on $10,000, or the cost of the entire water works plant. Whether it is proper or otherwise, pertinent or not, permit me to ask a question. How is it that so many of our best and most enterprising friends and neighbors, interested in street car lines, gas plants and electric light plants, all join in the chorus, against the city putting in a water works plant. If it be such a poor investment for a city, as so strenuously asserted, why do companies having their local places of business in the eastern states, employ a host of agents (many of them being gentlemen) of remarkable abilities and long experience (as solicitors) at large salaries, besides paying traveling and other expenses and outlays of money for special purposes not entered into to visit every city and town of the western states which is canvassing the question of a water supply—and keep such agents hanging round the city council or their members, day and night, week after week, month in and out, persistently laboring with city authorities to obtain contracts to supply water works plants.

The cost of such kind of work must be considerable—and must be paid for in some manner. Who pays for it in the end? If the agent makes a conquest of a city or town occasionally, then it is as plain as a pike staff—that this place must be made in some way to pay the cost of the water against a half dozen other cities or towns not subdued by the similar art or means applied by the agent in gaining an entrance into the poor, unfortunate city. It must be apparent to any one that these water work companies are not doing business in that line, merely for the fun of the thing. If the business is a money losing one, is there not some danger of the bottom falling out of the money chest of any company this city may be induced to contract with, while the work is going on, and the city waiting ten years for the company's affairs to be wound up in the courts of the state.

THESE MEN FOUND OUT.

Newspapers found stealing their neighbors' news.

Just now there is going around the country a sermon purporting to have been preached by the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage. Mr. Talmage characterizes it as "an outrageous fraud." The circumstances connected with this "base deception" are as follows: Around the country are a syndicate of papers—among them, the Gazette—that have the exclusive right to use advance copies of Mr. Talmage's sermons. Recently other papers had been publishing these sermons, until it was concluded that some member was playing false. To find out positively, a bogus sermon, having the very significant title "Friends Deceived," was sent out and allowed to fall into the suspected one's hands. The plan worked admirably. All through the country this sermon—apparently aimed directly at the wickedness of those that would steal other peoples' sermons—appeared under headings that were very edifying to the student of strict honesty. Regular customers were warned by telegraph at the last moment, not to use it, but this was after the "irregular" customers had swallowed bait, hook and all. Probably no madder set of men could be found than these same irregulars to-day; just on that account.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. A. L. Graham has returned to Chicago.

—Wm. Radde arrived in Liverpool yesterday, and so telegraphed his family here.

—Mr. F. H. Bemis, of Footville, has just returned from a business trip to South America.

—To-day Mr. D. Dunwiddie, of Broadhead, is removing to this city where his two sons are already established.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Cook and wife, who were called to attend the funeral of Mr. A. L. Graham, have returned to their home in Chicago.

THEY SOAK THEIR FEET.

Editor of GAZETTE:—While the subject in regard to our children's welfare in the public schools is being debated, I wish to call the attention of parents to one great evil in connection therewith. It concerns oil and frequently takes the shape of the household from among us. Children waste and play in the water and then sit in our school rooms during school hours completely water soaked.

As a consequence disease, and often death is the result. Our school authorities and teachers do all they can to remedy this matter, and let us hope that the parents of these children will use their best endeavors to check them in their amphibious habits.

THE MAQUERADE.

A Regular Jam at the Bink Last Evening.

By far the largest crowd ever seen in the Riverside rink was that gathered last evening to take part in and witness the grand ante-lenten festivities under the auspices of the Janesville Concordia society. For weeks the committee of arrangements has been hard at work completing details for the grand affair which took place last evening. The large and well pleased audience which packed the rink last evening is evidence that these labors were a grand success.

Mr. D. W. Watt, the treasurer of the Great Forepaugh Shows, sold tickets, and remarked as he caught time to catch a fresh breath of air, that it reminded him of a big circus day. The crowd was too large to be easily managed upon the floor, yet the floor managers had but little trouble in keeping the procession moving through the crowd that was compelled to get standing room on the surface reserved for the masquers. During the grand march just before unmasking there were 124 couples in line, and many others occupying seats or standing room among the spectators.

There were many very good disguises, but very few characters. The best lady character was that of the "Dancing Star" represented by Miss Nettie Toick, while Joe Baker, as the jolly fat cat, captured the cake among the sterner sex. Messrs. Joe and Bob, Bowstwick, cleverly deceived many in their most perfect female attire. The group of plantation dukes was good, as was the German emigrant and his wife. The Italian cars were very good, and were carried out according to programme. Orestis Horn was master of ceremonies, and with the assistance of the other committees, the large crowd was most admirably handled. Smith & Corlies' orchestra furnished excellent music. There was much merriment when the masks were removed, and the dance was continued until morning. The result is that the nineteenth annual masquerade ball of the Concordia society eclipsed anything of the kind ever before attempted in this city, and the crowd in attendance was the largest ever assembled at any public dance.

Don't be hanged into buying a poor porous plaster. Ask for "Pomerey's Petroleum Plaster." Pretence & Treason, opposite postoffice.
